

Level of Achievement Project
Assessment Parameter	Exceptional (51-60)	Proficient (41- 50)	Satisfactory (31- 40)	Unsatisfactory (20- 30)	Scores
Viability of Project Concept/Idea	The project concept is highly innovative, relevant, and addresses a significant problem or opportunity. It demonstrates a deep understanding of the subject matter.	The project concept is sound and addresses a relevant problem or opportunity. It shows a good understanding of the subject matter.	The project concept is reasonable and somewhat addresses a problem or opportunity. It demonstrates basic understanding.	The project concept lacks innovation and struggles to address the problem or opportunity effectively. Understanding of the subject matter is limited.
Technology Stack Utilized	The choice and implementation of technology stack are highly appropriate, cutting-edge, and enhance the project's functionality and efficiency.	The technology stack chosen is suitable and effectively supports the project's requirements.	The technology stack is reasonable but may have minor issues impacting project performance.	The technology stack choice is suboptimal, leading to significant limitations and challenges in the project.
Assessment of Teamwork and Individual Roles	Team members collaborate effectively, clearly define individual roles, and consistently contribute to the project's success.	Team members work well together, and individual roles are defined and respected.	Collaboration is present, but there may be occasional conflicts or unclear roles within the team.	Teamwork is subpar, with noticeable conflicts and poor delineation of individual responsibilities.
Quality of the PowerPoint Presentation	The presentation is clear, engaging, and effectively communicates key project aspects. It demonstrates excellent visual and verbal communication skills.	The presentation is well-structured, with good visuals and clear explanations.	The presentation is passable but lacks polish, with some areas needing improvement in clarity or engagement.	The presentation is disorganized, lacks engagement, or has significant issues with clarity.
Evaluation of the Written Project Report	The project report is exceptionally well-written, comprehensive, and effectively communicates all project details.	The project report is well-structured, covers essential aspects, and is clearly written.	The project report is adequate but may lack some detail, clarity, or organization.	The project report is disorganized, contains significant gaps, or has notable writing issues.
Comments:				Total Marks	